» Fairs remain vital to the antiques and design industries, offering the connection, discovery and inspiration that continue to shape our global community.

This year marks the fourth edition of our global guide to trade fairs — a milestone that allows us to reflect on just how much the industry has endured and evolved. From the sudden shutdowns of COVID, to the cautious reopenings, and now to a period of renewed resilience, fairs have proven their continued importance to the antiques and design worlds.

While the market itself is constantly shifting, what remains essential is the human connection. The conversations between dealers and designers, the serendipity of discovering a piece in person, the ability to see, touch, and experience objects in ways that digital platforms alone cannot provide — these are what keep trade fairs vital to our industry.

At Ronati, we are proud to support this global community alongside our longtime partners Antiques News & Fairs and The House Directory. Together, we are committed to providing resources that help the industry navigate change, while celebrating the enduring role of fairs in shaping relationships, inspiring design, and driving business forward.

Looking forward to a year of growth, reconnecting and new connections, and continued momentum for this remarkable industry.

Trade Fairs and Shows For Sellers of Art, Vintage and Antiques

GAIL MCLEOD

ANGEL TAN

CEO
THE HOUSE DIRECTORY

The fairs calendar for 2025 has shown resilience in the wake of global changes. The public continue to attend fairs across the spectrum, and it is reassuring to see new exclusive London events join the landscape, alongside established central events celebrating 40 years on the antiques and design calendar. Trade associations have expanded their reach into central London, with CADA establishing a presence on the Kings Road and LAPADA in Berkeley Square. We look forward to the return of the BADA members' fair in 2026.

The House Directory and Antiques News & Fairs are delighted to work with Ronati on this latest guide to trade fairs and shows, an essential complimentary resource for the antiques, vintage and design industries.

THD, a long-time trade partner of Ronati, is a highly respected portal for the interior design industry with a dynamic young team headed by owner, Angel Tan.

The ANF fairs calendar has been recognised globally as the leading resource for accurate listings of events in the UK, EU, and USA for nearly twenty years. ANF was founded by Gail McLeod in 2008.

The THD×ANF collaboration works across the antiques and design industry and increasingly with the makers' sector, and we see major changes in the way events will be promoted in calendars, guides, and newsletters going forward.

AI is playing a major role in all that we do, and we are excited to make use of this tool, while remaining dedicated to original content and opinion. Our tagline remains where antiques meet interior design.

In winter 2025, ANF and THD will add compelling content to the ANF fairs calendar, providing curated stories and background on current antiques and design events.

We look forward to our continued partnership with Ronati, a company that has always led the way in producing products that transform the antiques and design trade.

Etc Fairs organises and manages two long-running monthly fairs in London: the Bloomsbury Book Fair, and The Bloomsbury Ephemera, Book & Postcard Fair. The former, while focused primarily on books, also features strong contributions from some of the country's leading specialists in maps, prints, ephemera, manuscripts, and photographs. The latter is one of the preeminent fairs specialising in ephemera, again with a very strong representation from the other collectible sectors, including books and postcards. The fairs, a favorite for over twenty years, provide a fantastic resource for dealers, collectors, and specialists alike.
